EVERYONE'S TALKING ABOUT...

Was Katie's cut inspired by her pal Posh?

Katie: New look, new life!

When Katie Holmes strode out of Beverly Hills' Cut restaurant on June 12, it was clear to all that her transformation from shy Dawson's Creek actress to genuine Hollywood glamour-puss was complete.

Forgetting the animal-print dress and the killer heels, it was her radical new hairdo that had jaws dropping. While many have speculated that Katie looked to pal Victoria "Posh Spice" Beckham for inspiration, sources close to the actress, who just wrapped production on Mad Money, her first new film since meeting Tom Cruise two years ago, say that she came up with the stylish look herself.

"Katie wanted a change," one friend tells OK!. "She's feeling more grown-up and is coming into her own. Her new hairstyle reflects that new attitude."

Fashion designer and stylist-to-the-stars Charlie Lapson tells OK! that the haircut is a sign of Katie's wanting to take control of her life. "She's ready to try new things," he explains. "Her new look shows she's breaking away from her past and readjusting her image from the Dawson's Creek days."

Dr. Gilda Carle agrees. "This represents a new look on life, a new vision," she explains to OK!. "For a woman, cutting off most of your hair is a major change, especially to get it cut off as dramatically as Katie did."
